$150,000 STRAWBERRY RESORT OPENS ON MEMORIAL DAY

New Buildings Are Built To Serve Vacationing Public In Winter And Summer; Visitors Have Choice Of Hotel Or Motel Accommodations

The new $150,000 Strawberry Resort, which seems to point a trend in possible future recreational development for the American River Canyon, will have its formal opening Memorial Day.

Re-established with a modern hotel and resort headquarters building flanked by a fourteen-apartment motel unit and a nine-hole golf course, this historic stopping place in the shadow of Lover's Leap is equipped to provide rest or sport, indoors or out-of-doors, in Winter or in Summer.

The development is on a tract of approximately one hundred sixty acres acquired a year ago from former owners by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baumhoff, and is on a scale intended to assure first class metropolitan hotel accommodations more than 5,000 feet above sea level and in the very heart of the mountains.

In addition to the scenic wonders and the recreational opportunities which the vicinity affords, Strawberry Resort will feature the commercial propagation of trout for sale, trout dinners, resort games, golf, tennis, archery, shuffleboard, with horses available for those who ride about the vicinity or take the trail to any of the numerous nearby lakes.

Steeped in the rich history of the California of the forty-niners and the lure of the pioneer trail which later became the route of the procession to and from the Comstock, Strawberry Resort today is as modern as tomorrow's automobile.

With all of its development, comforts and recreational facilities, Strawberry preserves its traditional hospitality and a hearty invitation to pay a visit, either a short call for sight-seeing or for dinner, an overnight stop or a more extended vacation, is extended by Manager James K. Pierson.

Mrs. Pierson has been in charge of the property for Mr. and Mrs. Baumhoff since shortly after they took possession, and the development of the modern resort and its facilities has been carried out under his direction.

In addition to the hotel and resort headquarters, which are combined in one building on the right of U. S. Route 50 as one drives easterly past the Strawberry Flat (now a nine-hole golf course), there is a new motel unit of fourteen apartments facing the highway on the opposite side.

The buildings of the old resort are being used as accommodations for the staff of the new plant and in addition there are two trout rearing ponds, a trout hatchery, a large artificial lake for commercial trout fishing.

On a recent visit to Strawberry Resort, while workmen were putting the finishing touches on the new buildings and the resort grounds, and supply company representatives were installing the last of the furnishings and fixtures, Mr. Pierson conducted a group personally on an inspection tour of the property.

Your reporter, having shared in this unusual treat, can say that it seems Strawberry Resort will continue to grow, not only in the extent of development, but also in the favor of the thousands who come to El Dorado County seeking the recreational advantages of which Strawberry has an abundance.

The outstanding feature of the new hotel and resort headquarters building as one approaches from what we may call "down the road" is the rock work on the foundation and first floor exterior, and which is also used artistically on the facing of the porch and the several steps leading to the main floor.

Next, it seems, one notices the steeply sloping metal roof, the better to shed the heavy snows of the Winter, and the numerous windows behind which are the seventeen ho-

NAZIS STRAIN TO HOLD GAIN

Britain Votes Dictatorial Power To Meet Emergency; French Town Re-Captured

LONDON, (UPI)—The government presented to parliament a far-reaching bill giving it full dictatorial control over all men and material resources of the country to meet the German threat. The measure was quickly passed by both houses of parliament and sent to King George for his royal assent. The bill became law at 6:16 p. m.

By UNITED PRESS

Allied armies struck back at the Nazi blitzkrieg offensive today, recaptured the ruined but important French town of Arras and battered at the German flanks on the Aisne and Scarpe Rivers.

The firm stand of British, French and Belgian forces, especially in the smoking villages of Picardy and Flanders, was a tribute to the "fierce energy" of Gen. Maxime Weygand, Allied generalissimo, who made an airplane flight over the confused and interlocked battle lines of northern France.

The outcome of the enormous conflict still was uncertain. Scores of major and minor engagements ranged from the banks of the Aisne at Rethel to the mouth of the Somme at Abbeville and north in Flanders and Picardy.

Only this was certain, The Germans were mustering every resource to hold and extend the line they have driven all the way across northern France to the English Channel. Their immediate objective was to crush the Allied army of the north—comprising the British expeditionary force, French units, the Belgian army and Dutch remnants—which has been cut off from the main French forces by the German drive across France.

The Allies were fighting back hard. Their recapture of Arras may indicate an attempt to blast a path through the German salient back to the main Allied positions south of the river Somme.

EL DORADO COUNTY MAN TO BE NEW GRAND PRESIDENT

Placerville Parlor Announces Reception To Be Held Tuesday Night Honoring H. S. Lyon; Eleven Veteran Members To Receive Awards

El Dorado County moved into prominence in the activities of the Grand Parlor. Native Sons of the Golden West, meeting at Bakersfield on Wednesday as the 1941 meeting of the order was awarded to the south end of Lake Tahoe and the delegates prepared for the installation of officers for the new year, with District Attorney Henry S. Lyon as Grand President. The installation will be held on Thursday afternoon.

Upon the receipt of word that the 1941 convention had been awarded to El Dorado County, officers of Placerville Parlor No. 9 announced that they have made plans for a reception to be held at their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, honoring the new Grand President of the order.

The reception will be in connection with the regular meeting of Placerville Parlor, which will include a memorial service for members who have passed on during the year, and also will be the occasion for the presentation of eleven pins to as many members in recognition of their fifty years of membership in the order.

Placerville Parlor has invited grand officers and representatives of other subordinate parlors in Central California to attend the reception honoring Mr. Lyon.

The election of Mr. Lyon to be the principal officer of a statewide organization brings a certain distinction to his home county and is a source of satisfaction to his many friends that his activity and interest in the order have been so recognized.

A past president of Placerville Parlor, he has served the Grand Parlor of Native Sons as a Grand Trustee and subsequently was elected Grand Third Vice-President of the order, from which he has advanced each year to the post of Grand First Vice-President and now undertakes the duties of the Grand President.

Placerville Parlor's invitation to the Grand Parlor to meet at Lake Tahoe in 1941 was supported by the El Dorado County Chamber of Commerce, the Soroptimists' Club and the Lions Club, all of which sent telegraphic invitations, and by the resort owners at Lake Tahoe, who pledged complete co-operation in arrangements. Additionally, 400 booklets concerning the county and 400 folders on the same subject were sent to the meeting at Bakersfield by the chamber of commerce.

Guard School Opens May 27

Three-Day Session At Mosquito CCC Camp Will Stress Advanced Work

Eldorado National Forest will hold its annual training for guards and fire fighters on May 27, 28 and 29 at the Mosquito CCC camp, it was announced Wednesday.

Most of the men attending this year have had experience with fire-fighting and are already well grounded in its rudiments, therefore, the training program will be mostly on the advanced order. Special stress will be laid on the use of short wave radio, "fire weather" forecasting, etc., detecting fire hazards and studying means of their correction, etc.

These training schools are held every year for the purpose of bringing personnel up to date on the latest forest fire practices, and are attended by rangers, fire guards, lookouts, and members of cooperative fire organizations such as the California State Division of Forestry.

Menlo Ferrara was removed to his home Wednesday morning following a short stay at Placerville Sanatorium for the treatment of a sudden illness which came on Monday night.

Harold Duden, city clerk, and James Dalzell, insurance man, were welcomed into the Placerville Lions Club at their luncheon meeting on Tuesday at Hotel Raffles.

Lion President L. R. Armes called on Lion Ogden Hook to induct the two candidates into Lionism which he did with neatness and dispatch assisted by the tail twister.

Lion H. E. Dillinger reported preparations under way for the installation of officers at a meeting of the club at Strawberry Resort on June 11th and Lion John Raffetto reported to the club on replies received from Senator Downey and Congressman Englebright in response to the club's action urging support of the Cartwright Act, restoring federal aid road funds to their 1937 figure of $14,000,000.

In the absence of a guest speaker, the Lions heard short talks by E. W. Florence, division manager of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, who was the guest of Lion Roy Strum; by Lion Ogden Hook, calling attention to future civic events in the community; and by Lion Thomas Maul, calling attention to the district convention at San Jose, June 19 to 22.

The club will elect officers at its meeting on Tuesday of next week.

JANE BARTON WELCOMED

County Homemakers Open
8th Homecraft Institute
At Clubhouse Wednesday

El Dorado County's homemakers gathered at the Shakespeare Clubhouse Wednesday afternoon to greet Jane Barton and share in the opening of the eighth annual El Dorado County Homecraft Institute and Home Appliance Exposition.

The institute is presented each year under the joint sponsorship of The Republican, The Mountain Democrat and the Pacific Rural Press.

The second meeting of the institute will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the concluding session will be on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock with a fashion show as a feature of the closing program.

With the brief formalities of getting started concluded, Jane Barton made an announcement scheduling the homecraft arts exhibit as one of the features of the Thursday afternoon meeting, and homemakers in attendance were asked to bring to the institute for display some article they are using in their home which cost not more than $1, and which is exhibited as an example of achieving good taste at a nominal expense.

The theme of the institute is "The Application of Art to Homemaking" and the opening program was devoted to the subject, "Art in the Commonplace."

Jane Barton's first demonstration was in preparing a noon meal despite interruptions. Her meal included Dill Pickle Steaks, Consummate Salad Dressing and Raised Chocolate Fruit Pie.

Next she gave a demonstration in cleaning home equipment and followed this with a demonstration of "Preparing a pictorial menu for Supper" in which her menu included Klondike Supper Salad, Angel Sherbet, Almond Meringue Apples and Spinach Sandwich Suread.

The recipes and formulas for the dishes and other preparations used in her demonstrations were distributed to those in attendance in pamphlet form.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ward and Mrs. Anna Scherrer left Wednesday for Bakersfield to visit at the current Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, and to attend the installation of officers on Thursday.

Farm Advisor Ivan Lilley was at Sacramento on Wednesday attending the annual California Wool Show and Ram Sale.

Among licenses to wed reported to him home Wednesday morning following a short stay at Placerville Sanatorium for the treatment of a sudden illness which came on Monday night.

Menlo Ferrara was removed to his home Wednesday morning following a short stay at Placerville Sanatorium for the treatment of a sudden illness which came on Monday night.

Jane Hall girl detective is summoned to the home of Emery Harding on Skeleton Island off Maine to guard his daughter Audrey whose life has been threatened in a letter typewritten in red demanding that Harding relinquish a valuable ruby he bought from an old sea captain Albert Santrey. He also sends his friend Bruce Kirby, young museum curator who identifies the ruby as a historic gem believed to have been part of Captain Kidd's loot. Santrey is mysteriously murdered; then Drumm, one of the servants. Among the house guests are Frank Bitherbee, Audrey's fiance; Robert Castian, Harding's lawyer; and two doctors. When Castian is caught supposedly trying to get the ruby, he is locked up, though he insists he knows nothing about the murders. A little later Harding is attacked. While he lies hovering between life and death, Jane and Kirby hold a conference on the front veranda.

CHAPTER XXII

THERE WAS a long silence.

Then Jane sat up straight.

"Listen, darling," she said.

"Have you realized something?" Audrey's life was threatened in those notes to Harding. Yet she hasn't been molested in the slightest.

Instead, for some unknown reason, an old sea captain is killed, a servant is killed, and now Harding himself is nearly killed."

"What are you getting at, young lady?" asked Kirby.

Jane scowled. "Simply this—that those notes are a bluff. They are an attempt to obscure a plot which has no concern whatsoever with that ruby we saw."

"I'd believe that if the Rajah's ruby were not such a valuable thing." Harding estimated the value at approximately $50,000. He doesn't realize how he erred. It's easily worth $300,000."

"No!"

"Possibly," said Kirby. "Think of its historical background alone. An collector would be mad to have it!"

"But that's just it," said Jane. "Don't you see, darling? The stone is too easily identified. It couldn't be cashed in without its thief being caught."

Kirby sat up at this. "Say that is right! No one is trying to get the ruby at all!"

"Except Castian," Jane corrected. "If his story is true."

"Then no one is really after Audrey," said Kirby.

"That's what I mean," said Jane.

Kirby settled back again puzzled. "But I don't know Jane. Why was Ludwig looking through Emery's keyhole while we were looking at the ruby?"

"Why don't you ask him?"

"You know I did. He pleaded guilty to mere curiosity."

JANE was thoughtful. "What was all that hocus-pocus about Captain Kidd's treasure you were spouting when we were interrupted?"

"No hocus-pocus—I meant it." Kirby paused. "Jane, I'm certain that there is buried treasure on this island."

"I know you are, I don't see why though."

"Where on earth, otherwise, would an old sea dog like Santrey get hold of the Rajah Amarak Singh's lost ruby?"

"He said—"

"I know what he said. But I know this stone. It never was near the Dutch East Indies. The whole thing fits beautifully. Kidd tel rooms of the second floor.

The rock, which is used extensively in the new development, was quarried from the base of Lover's Leap on the resort property and its use in the resort buildings was by Umbert Sabriglia, whose triumph in artistic utility is in the fireplace which dominates the main lobby.

At the east end of the main floor of the building, and reached from our car by way of one of the several stone stairways leading to the porch which extends along the front of the entire hotel, is a dining room capable of seating, in banquet style, two hundred persons.

Immediately adjoining at the rear is, of course, the complete and modern kitchen, which also is in the rear of the coffee shop and fountain. This latter department is in what amounts to being a wing of the dining room.

Following along the front of the building westerly, then, is a store room where, for the present, purchases of groceries and other camping supplies may be made. Ultimately, Mr. Pierson explained, this will become the business headquarters of the resort.

This adjoins the main lobby of the hotel in which is the huge fireplace, and in which the decorative trim, in addition to colorful and artistic painting, including a panel of especially acquired manufactured material personally selected in Idaho for its unusual color and beauty by Mr. Baumhoff.

Off the main lobby is a women's lobby and also a small room which, for the present, will be the resort headquarters. Later this last named unit will become the postal office for Strawberry Resort.

The westerly end of the building houses the tap room and there are, in addition to the specific rooms mentioned, additional supply rooms on the first floor for various departments of the building.

The stairway to the second floor leads off the lobby and upward to a corridor extending the length of the building, on either side of which are seventeen hotel rooms, furnished in luxurious comfort, all equipped with shower or tubs.

Every window affords an enchanting view of highway, pine-clad hills or stream, while steam radiators extend the promise of cosy comfort Winter and Summer, morning, noon and night.

In the basement, one finds quarters for recreational use—shuffleboard, perhaps, and bowling. Utility requirements occupy the balance of the space: a massive store room, facilities for manufacturing daily 300 pounds of ice for resort use; the heating and hot water plant, and four large "walk-in" refrigerators.

Of these, two are six and one-half feet wide and eight feet deep; another is seven feet wide and thirteen feet deep and the fourth is the same depth and six feet wide.

Nearby, of course, is the resort power plant, operated by gas engine. During the next three years this will be displaced by the resort's own hydro-electric plant, and the present plant will then be used only for auxiliary purposes.

Across the highway is the fourteen-unit motel, each apartment with tub or shower, and each apartment with its private entrance leading off the porch which extends along the entire front. Each room is individually heated by gas register automatically controlled, and each apartment has its own rear door, just a few steps from the nearby garage.

The golf course, sprawled across the meadow which is Strawberry Flat, completes the development of the lower resort, and one turns eastward toward the towering face of Lover's Leap seeking new scenes, and the search is not in vain.

Approaching what, in earlier years, was the resort center, one comes upon a rock-lined pool, approximately 180 feet by 180 feet irregular in length and breadth, which will be the center of commercial fishing at Strawberry Resort.

Here the weary angler may fill out his limit or may play at fishing in white flannels, all for sport and for a price.

Behind the old resort building (which, temporarily, will serve as quarters for the resort staff) are two additional trout rearing pools, one holding 12,000 trout and another holding 30,000 trout, estimated, at the time of our visit.

Nearby is a complete fish hatchery, which within the past two weeks has received 150,000 eggs which are now incubating, and adjoining is an ice store house where natural ice will be put up during the winter for use in packing fish and for other utility purposes.

One of the features about Strawberry Resort which is not seen by the casual visitor, but which will, through the years, be an important one, is the development of a 20,000 gallon storage of pure mountain spring water.

HELP VOCABULARY GROW WITH CHILD

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

A GOOD vocabulary and success are often twins. A good vocabulary and a likable personality are also.

Recent studies have indicated that, all else being equal, a person with a large vocabulary will get along better at school and college and will have better success in life than the person with a small vocabulary. There are plenty of exceptions, of course.

This seems to mean that we parents can contribute to the success of our growing child in his life work, to some degree at least, as we contribute to the growth of his vocabulary. Even the person who labors with his hands may climb with the aid of an enlarged vocabulary. As a rule, the person who can say what he wants to say and make others easily understand what he means, has a better chance to land a job, hold it or win promotion than the one who can't.

Has Advantage

In high school, even the elementary grades, the child who can select the best words to say what he wants to say, has the advantage over his classmate who may be as bright or brighter but more limited in vocabulary. In addition to getting better grades for his efforts, the child with the better vocabulary can think more clearly, can feel more comfortable as he speaks and be more likable.

The growing child gains vocabulary by mingling with others with a good vocabulary. Much of his vocabulary he acquires from his parents. Yet, theirs, though they be well educated, may be rather limited.

The child gains rapidly from reading and being read to. I can imagine no better way to cultivate the growing child's vocabulary than by reading to him from early babyhood to long past his age of entering school.

Read to from early babyhood, the child will be hearing stories and books of fifth or sixth grade level by the time he enters school. After he begins reading he will enjoy hearing from books with a vocabulary far harder than in those he can read alone.

Reading Aloud

Often in this column I have urged the youth to read aloud to improve his speech. Reading aloud to him self or to others will enrich his style and speaking vocabulary more, no doubt, than will silent reading. Yet, silent reading does broaden the vocabulary tremendously. It's the youth or adult who reads much from good books whose vocabulary is wide.

Let no reader suppose he should go around using long words. If he is wise, he will not use a long one where a short one will do as well.

He needs a wide range from which to choose, so he may employ the best word to say just what he wishes to say, and make understood just what he wishes to have understood.

If you would like to receive a chart of the average vocabularies at the various age levels, write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

MOSQUITO CCC CAMP MOVES TO CALDOR TO WORK ON BLISTER RUST

Camp Mosquito CCC began moving to their summer location at Camp Caldor, near the Alpine Highway on Wednesday.

For the past seven months this CCC company has been working on road telephone line construction and maintenance, fire breaks, etc., in the Mosquito district, and this camp will now be vacated until fall.

Except for forest fire suppression, the entire company strength at Camp Caldor is directed to White Pine blister rust control throughout the summer months, working into the fall until the frost causes the leaves to fall off the ribes plants which act as a "host" to the rust spores.

ELECTION IN FAMILY

BRENTWOOD, Calif.—One family did all the voting and counted ballots when an election was held for annexing a tract of 50 acres to the Contra Costa Water District. There are only three residents in the district. They are Edgar Allen, a Brentwood publisher; his wife, Gertrude, and son, Edgar, Jr. They annexed the tract.

Model Railroad Operated By College Students

HANOVER, N. H. (UPI)—It's purely scientific, this "Nigger Island and Pompanoosuc Railroad" on the third floor of Thayer School at Dartmouth College here.

But there's no denying the fact that 400 feet of track, 185 feet on a complex double-loop, and the complete rolling stock in miniature is a small boy's paradise.

And 13 students and two faculty members of Dartmouth College's Thayer school of engineering, who operate the railroad, forget to be scientific occasionally. The "road" takes its name from a nearby river.

MECHANICAL UNIT VITALLY IMPORTANT IN LIFE OF REFRIGERATOR

Although you seldom see the cold-making or mechanical unit, it is a vitally important part of every electric refrigerator. More than anything else, it determines the number of years of service you will get from your refrigerator . . . its quietness and operating cost . . . its ability to maintain safe food storage temperatures and freeze ice or desserts quickly . . . and its freedom from excessive service expense. It is the heart of your refrigerator.

The Polarsphere, Kelvinator's famous cold-making unit, is hermetically sealed and protected for years against air and moisture. Its few moving parts operate quietly in a permanent bath of oil. It never needs oiling. The Polarsphere is so designed and built it will give many years of dependable, trouble-free service.

Under average conditions, the Polarsphere runs only one-fifth of the time. When running, it uses less current than an ordinary electric light. Reports from users show that it costs from 25 per cent to 50 per cent less to operate than the best refrigerator mechanisms of a few years ago.

Since the Polarsphere runs only 12 minutes out of each hour, under average home conditions, it has plenty of reserve power to produce all the cold you'll ever need in the hottest weather. This is according to Ray Pyle of Pots & Pans.

Because of the unusually high cold-making power of the Polarsphere, the freezing compartments of all 1940 Kelvinators are extra large. Even when operating normally, it will produce all the ice cubes needed for the average family. If extra ice is needed, a turn of the control does the trick.

With every 1940 Kelvinator, you

SERIOUS THAN CAR THEFT

DOVER, Del. (UP)—Horse stealing in the state at one time that the thief got 39 lashes "well laid on," was put in the pillory and then placed in jail. The old law also provided for cropping of the culprit's ear, and made him wear a large letter C in public when released.

If a man steals a horse, he faces a sentence of jail plus a mandatory fine, even if the horse is a broken-down "plug." For taking an automobile, no matter how expensive, meting out of a jail sentence is within the discretion of the court.

If a judge gave a horse thief the limit under the law, he could send him to jail for one year, fine him $200 and force him to pay the costs of prosecution, reward and search.

receive written protection against mechanical service expense for five years . . . backed by the oldest maker of electric refrigerators, with a 26-year reputation for honesty and fair dealing.

The new Kelvinator line is headed by a new 6 1/4 cubic foot model which sells at only $119.95 delivered in your kitchen. This new low-priced model, says Ray Pyle of Pots & Pans, is now in stock and ready for immediate delivery.

Since the Polarsphere runs only

But for the auto thief, maximum penalty would be $100 fine and 90 days.

So serious was horse stealing in the state at one time that the thief got 39 lashes "well laid on," was put in the pillory and then placed in jail. The old law also provided for cropping of the culprit's ear, and made him wear a large letter C in public when released.

Blackboard Map Keeps Pace With War

LORAIN, O. (UP)—Lorain public school authorities believe they have found the answer to the puzzling problem of what to do about classroom maps of Europe when national boundaries change or disappear almost weekly.

Sets of "white blackboard" maps have been installed. Boundaries are colored in washable crayon and then the maps covered with a glassy transparent material to prevent any smudging.

Lieutenant and Mrs. John C. Breedlove, of Placerville, are the parents of a son, David Charlton Breedlove, born May 13 at Placerville Sanatorium. Lieutenant Breedlove is stationed at Mosquito CCC camp.

NORTH SIDE RESIDENT LAID AT REST AT IONE CEMETERY

The funeral services for Alexander Daniel Bonham, 84, for many years resident in the Kelsey district and at Spanish Flat, were held on Wednesday afternoon from the Methodist church at Ione. Interment was at the Ione cemetery.

This was according to arrangements concluded by Memory Chapel. Mr. Bonham died in Placerville early Tuesday, having been a hospital patient only two days.

A native of Ione, he had been engaged in mining during his active life. He is survived by a son, W. H. Bonham, of Placerville, and three daughters, Mrs. George Southerman, of Placerville; Mrs. Jack Holmes, of Modesto; and Mrs. Betty Smith, of San Francisco, in addition to several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.
